

Pattern and Pumpkins

Yayoi Kusama

Kusama is a contemporary artist from Japan. She is famous for her use of polka-dot patterns. She has often created pumpkin sculptures, describing the shape of a pumpkin as 'humorous'.

Kusama is also famous for her use of reflected lights in mirrors. She has created mirrored 'infinity rooms', in which she has suspended thousands of LED lights which reflect in the mirrors and create a feeling of infinite (unending) space.

Ceramics

Ceramics is the word we use to describe artwork made using clay. In this unit we have made a three-dimensional form. This means we had to think about how our artwork looks from all sides.
